

In my 30-year career in higher education, I have heard many presenters speak on various topics. Without a doubt, Dr. Thomas Tobin is one of the best. Prior to his arrival, I must admit that I was dreading a full day of presentations and meetings on the topic of evaluating online teaching. Because Tom is such an electrifying speaker, extremely knowledgeable on the subject matter and does an excellent job interacting and entertaining the audience, the day flew by. Tom's vast experience in online education is impressive and was extremely beneficial to the UNK faculty. As we move forward with implementing quality measurement strategies for our online courses, I am confident that we will be asking Tom to return to our campus to provide his expertise.

I highly recommend Tom as a speaker or a consultant for those in higher education who are challenged with the task of evaluating online teaching. It will be well worth your time!!
