Dr. Tobin's 2017 Southeastern UDL Conference keynote address, Reframing University Design for Learning, was the perfect combination of expertise and energy that we needed to start off our conference. Immediately following the address, attendees could be heard unpacking the key themes from the presentation and how they would apply their newly acquired knowledge once they returned to their campuses. It was affirmation that we picked the right keynote presenter when we heard attendees in the sessions that followed the next few days, referring back to snippets from the keynote presentation.

Dr. Tobin masterfully provided a message that was powerful and captivating for attendees. He kept the audience entertained while putting them in a space to reflect critically on the information he was providing. The experience was fun, interesting and insightful. We appreciate the valuable contribution Dr. Tobin's address made in making our conference a success.

Sincerely,
